Survival of Love

It has been ten years since Susie has stepped foot in her hometown, always busy with first college and then her residency, but when she finds out her parents' health is declining rapidly while the local doctor is getting ready to retire, she knows it's time to go home. She applies for the position as family physician and when she gets the job, she moves back in with her parents to help them.

What Susie didn't expect was for her love for Jack to have survived all those years but does he still love her? Has he been hurt too much by the fact that she lost touch with him and that she effectively chose Yale over their relationship?

When strange injuries start appearing on some of Susie's patients, she knows that the one person who can help her is Jack but he has been avoiding her as much as possible. When she goes to him for help, will he turn away from her or will the sparks once again fly as if they were once again eighteen years old and in love?
